

WRITING FOR NATURE REVIEWS

At the Nature Reviews journals, we are committed to working with you to produce articles of the highest quality. Find out more about the support we provide during the editorial process in this infographic.

COMMISSION

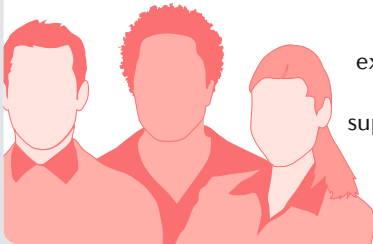

As most content is commissioned, our in-house editors will invite you to write and help you to develop the scope of a timely and insightful article.

FEEDBACK

Your editor will provide detailed feedback on the synopsis and first draft to ensure your manuscript is ready for peer review.

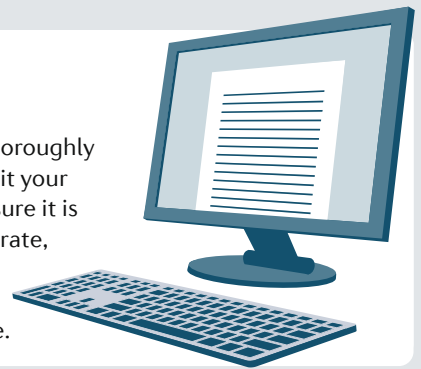

PEER REVIEW

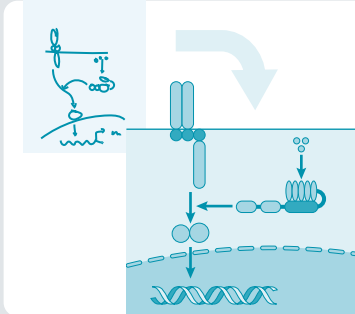

Your editor will select expert referees for your manuscript and then support you through the revision process by providing tailored guidance.

EDIT

Your editor will thoroughly and sensitively edit your manuscript to ensure it is scientifically accurate, clear and accessible to the journal's audience.

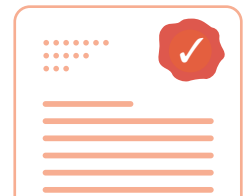

ARTWORK

Your editor and our in-house art team will help you create visually striking, professional-quality figures to illustrate your article.

ACCEPT

Your editor will work with you to finalize the manuscript and then, once it is accepted, they will hand it over to our dedicated production team.

COPY-EDITING AND PROOFS

The text and figures will be carefully copy edited and formatted to produce the article proofs, which are checked and approved by yourself and your editor before publication.

PUBLICATION

We will promote your article through social media channels and email alerts, and ensure it is indexed, so it is widely read. We also promote the use of ORCID, allowing authors to be more widely recognized for their work.

POST-PUBLICATION

We maintain the publication record by issuing corrections and handle correspondence and research integrity issues, as needed.
